CHOP CHOP CLUB

EDITOR'S PICK: Pelikan

HONORABLE MENTION: L'Atelier de Joël Robuchon

It should come as no surprise that Paul Pairet's latest concept would make such a huge splash on the Shanghai dining scene, and teaming up with UNICO Shanghai makes this restaurant a force to be reckoned with. This is a classic carvery done in a way that only Pairet can do it: fun and whimsical with his tongue lodged firmly in his cheek. The centerpiece of the experience is a lightboard that broadcasts what's next on the chopping block (a cote du beouf or a massive roast turbot, perhaps). It's paraded out of the kitchen to great fanfare. But who are we kidding, even the sides and starters could carry the meal here.
